Lambertville, N.J. – New Hope, PA., Dec. 20, 2010

POCO TO “ROCK” WINTER FESTIVAL CONCERT

Country band POCO will “rock” the 2011 Winter Festival concert with their unique country music performance on Friday, January 28, in New Hope Solebury High School’s Steven J. Buck Theater at 180 West Bridge Street at 8 p.m.

Formed in 1968 following the breakup of Buffalo Springfield, POCO pioneered the country-rock sound and scored hit after hit with such chart topping songs as “Crazy Love,” “Heart of the Night,” “Rose of Cimarron” and “Pickin Up the Pieces.”

VIP ticket holders have a great opportunity to meet band members Rusty Young, Jack Sundrud, Mike Webb and George Lawrence at a special pre-concert reception that will be held at the Logan Inn from 6 to 7:30 PM. The VIP ticket package includes the reception, priority seating at the concert, and trolley service between the theater and the Logan Inn before and after the concert.

Opening the show will be New Hope local singer and songwriter Gregg Cagno, a two time ASCAP award winner for the folk genre.

Go to the Winter Festival website at www.winterfestival.net for complete concert and VIP ticket information plus the full schedule of local events and activities.
